Scriptorium Monk at Work. (From Lacroix.)
Introduction

This handbook is written for you, a student in the process of writing a master’s or licentiate thesis in partial fulfillment of the requirements for a graduate degree from The Catholic University of America. It is the official guide to University requirements governing the preparation and submission of your thesis.

All master’s degree candidates who have opted to write a thesis and all candidates for the licentiate degree are required to submit a formal, written paper as required by their school or department, to the Office of the Vice Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies.

This Thesis Handbook explains how you should format your thesis. When you submit your manuscript for review, it will be checked thoroughly to ensure that it conforms to these stated guidelines so that problems with binding and archiving in the John K. Mullen of Denver Memorial Library will be averted. We advise a careful application of the handbook’s directives so that your deposit is successful.

Certain departments and schools follow procedures and formatting as described in the style manual or sheets specific to their individual disciplines. Your department or school may expect you to follow these guidelines. However, instructions or formatting guidelines published in this handbook, in any published addenda to the handbook, or in the Graduate Announcements, take precedence over discipline-specific guidelines.

In the absence of any specific requirements in the handbook, you should use your discipline’s style manuals or sheets wherever applicable.

With the development of new binding and publishing technologies and revised University policies, the guidelines for the preparation and submission of manuscripts may change from year to year. We therefore advise against referring to previous editions of the handbook, or using a previously submitted manuscript as a guide for format or layout.

Writing Your Thesis

Style

You should avoid writing in the first person plural (“we” and “our”), as your thesis is considered to be an individual project.

If the thesis is written in a language other than English, you should note this fact in an abstract that must be included at the beginning of the thesis. If primary or secondary sources are written or produced in a language other than English, you should indicate your knowledge of that language.

The Catholic University of America requires that all theses conform to The Chicago Manual of Style (Chicago: The University of Chicago Press, current edition) (hereafter The Chicago Manual). You may, however, have some difficulty in consulting The Chicago Manual alone. This publication is primarily a guide for editors and typographers preparing typescripts for printing. For easier reference, we recommend Kate L. Turabian, A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations (Chicago: The University of Chicago Press, current edition), which is an interpretation of The Chicago Manual specifically addressing the preparation of academic papers that will remain in typescript form.

In addition to using The Chicago Manual, several academic disciplines have adapted a specific style for use in the professional field for writing journal articles, submitting proposals, etc. You should check with your individual department or school to ascertain if there is a standardized style format for your discipline, or if they have adopted a style format that is standard in another, related discipline.
The following is an abbreviated list of other style manuals also in use at Catholic University:

- Biology: Scientific Style and Format: The CBE Manual for Authors, Editors, and Publishers (Council of Biology Editors)
- Canon Law: School of Canon Law Style Sheet (please see the School of Canon Law website for details)
- Psychology and Nursing: Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (American Psychological Association)
- Modern Languages: MLA Style Manual and Guide to Scholarly Publishing (Modern Language Association)

These manuals, like The Chicago Manual, are primarily guides to the preparation of typescripts that will appear in some other printed form. However, these manuals do contain directions for the preparation of academic manuscripts, and you should be sure to note such references when available.

Generally, you should use your own good judgment when interpreting the appropriateness of certain guidelines. For example, a running header (as prescribed by APA) is not appropriate for a dissertation, since the header is generally used for typescripts that may be reprinted in a journal with other manuscripts. Likewise, the double-spacing of all text, including quotations (as prescribed by MLA) is not appropriate for a dissertation, since the manuscript submitted to the University is considered to be in final form, and will not be transcribed into another form for further processing. Generally, these various manuals are helpful for citations of references and forms of notation.

Your thesis director and others in your school or department will assist you in the appropriate interpretation of discipline-specific guidelines within the context of University requirements. When in doubt, contact the Office of the Vice Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies for assistance.

Since these guides are periodically revised and updated, please be sure to consult the most current edition of any manual used.

The Writing Center

The Catholic University Writing Center provides support services to students at all stages of the writing process. The Writing Center strongly recommends that you contact them to make an appointment and speak with one of their trained consultants, graduate students in the English department. They can also be reached at 202-319-4286. Walk-ins are welcome on a space-available basis.

Catholic University Computing Resources

The Office of Technology Services offers a wide range of services for graduate students, issues a computer account to all faculty, staff, and students, and also provides students, faculty, and staff with an extensive computer education and training program. The Catholic University computing website offers details about computing at Catholic University, including information about training, computing resources available, a knowledge bank, a computing guide, and activities underway.

In addition, Technology Services provides support for all technology classrooms and computing areas on campus. A general computing lab in Leahy Hall, with both Windows and Macintosh machines, is open twenty-four hours a day during the semester. Other computer-equipped classrooms and computing labs are open and available for use by any member of the Catholic University community. The formatting guidelines prescribed in this handbook can be handled by word processing software in any lab on campus.

Using an Independent Typist or Service

Typists and word processing agencies frequently post advertisements on bulletin boards throughout the University.
Please consider the following when dealing with typists or word processing agencies.

You should have an extra copy of the draft of your manuscript in the event of loss of or damage to the original draft. On the draft copy, it is often a time/error saver to the author and typist if the footnotes are submitted on pages separate from the text.

Discuss with the typist the following questions:

- May the draft manuscript be handwritten, or must it be typed?
- Is the typist familiar with foreign expressions, equations, formatting tables and charts, etc., that you use in the manuscript?
- Will you already have properly formatted the final draft, or is the typist responsible for following Catholic University and discipline-specific formatting guidelines?
- May the typist correct minor grammatical and spelling errors?
- What kind of word processor or computer will the typist be using? What style and size typeface will be used?
- Will the typist proofread the finished work? (Of course, it is your responsibility to do the final proofreading, but the typist should proofread for obvious typographical errors.)
- If you have made a mistake, will the typist charge extra to correct the mistake?
- Will the typist edit the manuscript? If so, what will the editing cost?
- After agreeing with the typist on a deadline for completion of the manuscript, what will be the penalty for not meeting the deadline?

Always be aware that prices quoted per page will likely be affected by the use of foreign words, equations, or complicated tables and charts. You should attempt to cover with the typist all aspects of the preparation of the final manuscript before you present the draft for final typing.

You should be sure to secure a typist well in advance of deposit deadlines. Typists are in great demand at peak periods prior to graduation dates.

Whether or not you have already formatted the draft, give the typist a copy of the Catholic University formatting guidelines as well as any discipline-specific formatting guidelines you may be using. Emphasize the importance of following these guidelines. Encourage the typist to contact the Office of the Vice Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies if s/he has any questions concerning formatting.

The Copyright

The Office of General Counsel of The Catholic University of America has prepared an information sheet on the issues involved in the copyright of your thesis and registering your copyright with the Library of Congress. It is important that you read this document prior to making the decision whether or not to register your copyright with the Copyright Office of the Library of Congress.

You can also access extensive information on your copyright at the website of the Office of General Counsel.

Ecclesiastical Imprimatur

For ecclesiastical manuscripts in canon law, theology, or philosophy, an ecclesiastical imprimatur is generally not necessary. However, if you are a candidate in an ecclesiastical degree program, you should consult with your director or the dean of your school regarding the ecclesiastical imprimatur.
The Elements of Your Thesis

Preliminary Pages
Title Page
The Title of the Thesis
Your title should be exactly the same one as submitted on your thesis proposal. The title page must follow exactly either of the formatting examples given in the appendix. This is not the place for any creative efforts — special fonts, spacing, sizing, boldface or italic type, etc. Do not place the title in all caps.

Your Name
You must use your “name of record” on the title page. This is your official name as recorded by the Office of Enrollment Services. You may not include job titles or organizational affiliations (your diocese, your military unit, your employer, etc.). For clergy and religious, the titles “Rev.”, “Sr.”, or “Br.” are acceptable, while “Fr.” is not acceptable. Although you may have been sponsored and supported in your studies, your thesis is your own work, for which you are solely responsible. You may recognize sponsors in an acknowledgement or dedication.

The Copyright Symbol ©
Copyright privileges vest with you as author immediately upon creation of your thesis, whether or not you include the © symbol on your title page, and whether or not you register your copyright with the U.S. Copyright Office in the Library of Congress. You must decide whether to place the © symbol on your title page.

For an example of a title page without the copyright symbol included, please see page 15 of this handbook. For an example of a title page with the copyright symbol included, please see page 16 of this handbook.

The Date
The date on the title page of your thesis is the year (no day or month) in which you completed your academic program for which the thesis is required. This is also the date on which your copyright takes effect. This may not necessarily be the year in which you physically deposit the thesis, however. For example, if you deposit in December 2018, you actually graduate on January 31, 2019. In this case, the date on your title page should be 2018.

Signature Page
Your thesis must have a signature page signed by your director and reader(s). You are responsible for typing this page and obtaining the necessary signatures. Manuscripts that do not include the signature page, signed by all committee members, cannot be accepted for deposit. Signature substitutions are unacceptable (i.e., a dean or department chair may not sign for a committee member). You should therefore arrange to obtain all signatures well in advance of your anticipated deposit date.

The Office of the Vice Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies cannot assume responsibility for obtaining signatures, even if you must deposit by mail.

Abstract
Certain programs require master’s or licentiate degree candidates to submit an abstract of their thesis to The University. You should check with your school and department to determine if you must submit an abstract.
The abstract must be written in English, even if your thesis is written in a foreign language. It should contain no special characters or any text written in a non-Roman alphabet. The text of the abstract should be double-spaced.

The abstract should provide a concise summary of the following information:

- A statement of the problem,
- A description of the research procedure or method,
- An explanation of the results of the research,
- A summary of your conclusions.

Since the abstract is an important summary of your work and is the basis upon which scholars may decide to read the entire thesis, you should exercise great care in preparing the text.

Place the abstract directly after the title page, but do not number it.

Optional Preliminary Pages
You may include a dedication, an epigraph, a list of illustrations, a list of tables, a list of abbreviations (may alternately appear in the end matter), a foreword, a preface, or acknowledgements in the front matter of your thesis. Please refer to the Pagination section of this handbook for information on the order of appearance and pagination of these optional preliminaries.

Body of Text

Introduction
An introduction is optional. If you choose to include it, please follow your discipline-specific guidelines in deciding whether to make the introduction an independent section or to consider it formally as your first chapter. In either case, the introduction is the equivalent of a first chapter of your text and will be numbered accordingly. It is not a part of your preliminary materials.

Text
Following this general overview of the elements of your thesis, we will describe the required formatting and give you guidelines for including graphs, photographs, other illustrative materials, and addenda (non-text items) in your thesis. Please refer to the appropriate sections below.

Notes/Footnotes
Footnotes are strongly preferred over chapter endnotes simply for the convenience of your readers. Generally, you should number footnotes consecutively throughout the entire paper. However, if there are more than 100 footnotes, number them consecutively by chapter. Endnotes should appear at the end of each chapter — never at the end of the entire paper. Refer to the appropriate style manual of your discipline for proper notation and reference format.

Illustrative Materials
Illustrative materials include photographs, charts, graphs and tables, prints, maps, reproductions, renderings, hand-drawn items, etc. Select for inclusion only the highest quality items.

Color
You may include color items in your original manuscript.
Placement within Manuscript
You may include illustrative materials either in the body of the text or in an appendix. If included in the text, the materials should be inserted as close as possible to their first reference in the text. The explanation should precede the item. If you include the materials in an appendix, the explanation should also precede the item.

Placement on Page
Smaller items such as photographs or other reproductions that are glued onto pages should be staggered in alternating locations on the pages throughout the text: one at the top of a page, the other at the bottom of another page; one to the left, one to the right. In this way you can avoid making the manuscript too bulky in any one place. The items must be placed within the specified margins for the manuscript. See the examples of placement options on page 19.

Alignment of Page Numbers
Whether or not the illustrative material is placed in the manuscript in portrait or landscape format, the pagination should follow the alignment rules established for the rest of the manuscript. Please refer to the Pagination section of this handbook for more information.

Charts and Graphs
The charts and graphs may be in color. However, design the items in such a way that when they are copied in black and white, readers will be able to differentiate between the bars, pie sections, lines, etc.

Photographs
The inclusion of photographs in your manuscript is discouraged, because these do not reproduce well. If you do include photographs, they must be of excellent quality. If in color, they should have been produced using a color process producing sharp images and brilliant and long-lasting color (for example, using glossy rather than pearl backing).

Oversized Items
If possible, reduce the over-sized items to 8.5-inch x 11-inch page size, making the copies as clear and precise as possible.

Reproductions
Use only reproductions of excellent quality, if possible in black and white. Remember that the item will lose definition in the copying process, easily becoming illegible, and that colors may fade with age.

End Matter
Optional End Matter
Optional end matter may include an appendix or appendices, a glossary, a list of abbreviations (may also appear with the preliminary pages) and addenda (non-text items such as tapes, CDs, etc.).

Letters of Permission
In the event that you are including in your manuscript material that does not fall in the “fair use” category, you must request permission from the holder of the copyright to include the materials. For information on “fair use” and an example of a letter requesting permission to use the material, see the Office of General Counsel website.

If you have requested permission from other authors or publishers to use material in your thesis, you should include the letters of permission in your manuscript. Place such letters, separately labeled in an appendix, at the rear of the manuscript.

Packaging Addenda
Where appropriate, addenda should be placed in pockets designed for that type of material. Label the pockets clearly.
with the title of the thesis, your name, a description of the contents of the pocket, and instructions for the use of the contents. List the addenda, in the order of inclusion but unnumbered, in the Table of Contents.

Bibliography
Consult your department or school and the appropriate style manual for instructions on the discipline-specific formatting of the different types of references in your bibliography.

Preparing Your Manuscript

Typeface
The following standard printing fonts are acceptable: Times New Roman, Garamond, Palatino Linotype, or Century Schoolbook. The text of the manuscript should be printed in 12-point type. Avoid typefaces smaller than the above or special typefaces that print in script or in any other nonstandard mode. It is permissible to mix typefaces and fonts to give the finished product a professional appearance, for example using bold typeface or a larger font in titles. It is important, however, that your style elements be consistent throughout the manuscript.

Use either underlining or italics to emphasize text. Do not mix them — one system should be used consistently throughout the paper.

You may use proportional spacing, as well as right-margin justification, as long as you use hyphenation appropriately. Control carefully for orphan and widow lines. An orphan line is the first line of a paragraph that is the last line on a page. A widow line is the last line of a paragraph that is the first line on the next page. These sometimes look awkward because the bulk of the paragraph is on another page.

As a general practice, endnotes should be the same size and font type as the text. You may use a slightly smaller font size in footnotes; however, in no case should the font size be less than 10 point.

Paper
The paper must be plain white, non-textured, and acid-free. Off-white or cream-colored paper is unacceptable. Its weight must be a minimum of 20-pound bond, with at least 25 percent cotton rag (fiber) content. Catholic University recommends 50 percent cotton rag content. Most paper companies state the weight and rag content of the paper on the packaging. A watermark may also carry this information.

Any illustrative materials submitted with the manuscript (see above) must also be on archive-quality paper.

It is imperative that the paper be acid-free. Your manuscript will be bound and shelved. If the paper is not acid-free, it will turn yellow and disintegrate within a relatively short time. Only acid-free paper is considered to be of archival quality. Be sure the box of paper is marked “acid-free” — a watermark or a designation such as “highest quality” does not guarantee that the paper is acid-free. Do not use erasable bond paper; it is expensive, is difficult to work with, smudges easily, and does not produce a crisp, well-defined print.

Paper Alignment
Print or type on only one side of the paper, using portrait orientation for the text: the text should appear on the paper so that the left-hand margin of the text runs along the 11-inch length of the paper and 8.5 inches represents the top and bottom of the paper. The long left-hand edge is the binding edge. Exceptions may be made for charts, graphs, drawings, etc. However, pages must always be paginated with 11 inches representing the length and 8.5 inches representing the width, regardless of the placement of charts, graphs, or drawings.
Margins
All margins must be one inch wide. Page numbers are considered text and should not fall within the one-inch margins. There must be at least a clear one-inch space between the edge of the paper and the edge of the page numbers.

Line Spacing
Double-space the text uniformly throughout the manuscript, with the exception of footnotes, quotations, etc. Refer to Kate L. Turabian, A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses and Dissertations, or to your discipline’s style manual, for proper spacing instructions.

Pagination
Every page of the manuscript following the title page, with the exception of the abstract (if applicable), must carry a number. Preliminary pages should be numbered in lowercase Roman numerals. The text should be numbered in Arabic numerals, which continue consecutively throughout the remainder of the paper, including end matter.

All preliminary page numbers should be centered at the bottom of the page. Additionally, all end matter, i.e., every page after the main text, including appendices and bibliography, should be paginated at center bottom throughout.

All text page numbers can either be centered at the top of the page, or appear in the upper right hand corner, with the exception of those pages carrying a major heading, such as the first page of a chapter, in which case the number should be centered at the bottom of the page. Even if charts, illustrative materials, etc., are inserted in the manuscript in landscape format, the page numbers must appear on the page and be consistent with all other pages of text in portrait format.

On rare occasions, it will not be possible to place a page number on an illustration, photograph, etc. In this case, consider this page to have the next consecutive number, continuing the sequence on the following page.

Deposit of the Final Manuscript

After your director and reader have accepted your thesis, you will deposit your final manuscript with the Office of the Vice Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies. The office can accept approved manuscripts, by appointment, at any time throughout the calendar year up until the deposit deadline for the semester. The deadlines for deposit published in the Academic Calendar specify the latest date on which a thesis may be deposited in order for you to be eligible to receive your degree on the next graduation date. Degrees are conferred three times each academic year, generally in October, January, and May. The final date for deposit of approved manuscripts for each commencement date is noted in the Academic Calendar.

In order to assure that the deposit of your thesis goes smoothly, the administrator requires a formatting review of your manuscript prior to the comprehensive exam. The formatting review is done electronically and involves looking over a PDF copy of the manuscript and giving direction on any necessary changes to the formatting of the manuscript. It also allows time to make those changes. To submit a manuscript for the formatting review, please contact the administrator.

Prior to final deposit, it will be your responsibility to make any required changes to your manuscript, and to obtain the signatures of the director and reader on your signature page. Please note that individual schools can require you to submit your final thesis manuscript to your committee by a deadline earlier than the University deposit date listed in the Academic Calendar. Please consult with your department chair’s and dean’s office concerning your school’s requirements for deposit.

At the time of the deposit of the final hard copy, the administrator will review your manuscript for adherence to University guidelines and will check all deposit documentation. If all is in order, the administrator will issue you a receipt for deposit of the manuscript and payment of the requisite fees. Copies of this receipt will be forwarded to your school dean.

If you have also met all other requirements for the master's or licentiate degree, your dean can place your name on the graduation list submitted to the Academic Senate for final approval.

Deposit by Mail

If you must deposit by mail, please allow several additional weeks prior to any deposit deadline. Experience has shown that it takes considerable time to rectify problems by mail. Before mailing, be sure that all pages in your thesis and all fees are included in the mailing, and that you have obtained all required signatures.

The Office of the Vice Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies will not be responsible for obtaining signatures. You are solely responsible for ensuring that all requirements pertaining to the deposit of your thesis are met by the appropriate deadline.

Certified mail is recommended for sending materials — Express Mail is suggested if at all close to a submission deadline. In order to better track your package, please notify the Graduate Studies office when you have mailed your manuscript.

For your protection, you should always keep a complete copy of your final manuscript.
Preparing to Deposit Your Thesis

- Contact the Office of the Vice Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies to arrange an electronic formatting review of your thesis.
- Correct any formatting errors and send thesis to the Office of the Vice Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies for a second review (if necessary).
- After your thesis has been approved for formatting, make an appointment for the final deposit of your thesis.
- Print out your thesis on the prescribed cotton paper. After printing, go through the manuscript page by page to check for numbering or printing errors, missing or misplaced pages, etc.
- Obtain all necessary signatures on your thesis signature page.

What is Included in the Final Thesis Deposit?

- One original manuscript with abstract (if applicable) and signed signature page;
- Cash, check, or money order made out to “The Catholic University of America” for $50.

Please note that fees are subject to change without notice.
Visit the Enrollment Services website for up-to-date fees and costs.

Personal Bound Copies of the Manuscript

The University does not provide personal binding services for students. You may order bound copies from a commercial bindery, if you wish.
After Deposit

Shortly after your formal date of graduation, the Office of the Vice Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies will forward your thesis manuscript to Catholic University’s Mullen Library for cataloging, binding, and shelving. The materials will be retained permanently in the library.

Graduation

All students must apply for graduation through Cardinal Students. Click on "Student Center" after logging in, and in the "Academics" section, click on the "Apply for Graduation" link from the drop-down menu. Follow the prompts to successfully apply for graduation. Click here for a tutorial about this process.

If you attend the May Commencement exercises, you may receive your diploma at that time. If you are graduating in October or January, or plan to walk in May but wish to have your diploma mailed to you before the May Commencement, you may inform the University registrar in writing of the address to which you wish to have your diploma sent. It is expected that you will attend Commencement exercises. If you are unable to do so, you must write a letter to the provost of the University at least one week before Commencement asking to be excused and stating your reasons for not being able to attend the exercises.

You may request a transcript from the Office of Enrollment Services prior to or following your formal graduation. The request must include the following information:

- Full name
- Address
- Date of birth
- School and dates of attendance

If you publish your thesis after receiving your degree, you are expected to acknowledge in the publication that the paper was originally submitted in partial fulfillment of requirements for a graduate degree awarded by The Catholic University of America.

If you have any questions concerning the information or instructions in this handbook, please contact the Office of the Vice Provost and Dean of Graduate Studies.

Placement of Illustrative Materials within the Manuscript

You may include illustrative materials either in the body of the text or in an appendix. If included in the text, the materials should be inserted as close as possible to their first reference in the text. The explanation should precede the item. If you include the materials in an appendix, the explanation should also precede the item.

Smaller items such as photographs or other reproductions that are included in the thesis should be staggered in alternating locations on the pages throughout the text: one at the top of a page, the other at the bottom of another page; one to the left, one to the right.

The items must be placed within the specified margins for the manuscript.

Correct Placement

![Correct Placement Diagram]

The incorrect placement of items such as photographs or other reproductions becomes distracting for your reader, and removes large blocks of space for text, reducing the amount of information on a page considerably.

Therefore, you should avoid layouts such as that shown below.
